

FOIA Marker

This is not a textual record. This FOIA Marker indicates that material has been removed during FOIA processing by Obama Presidential Library staff.

Records Management, White House Office of (WHORM)

Subject Files - FO (Foreign Affairs)

Stack:	Row:	Sect.:	Shelf:	Pos.:	FRC ID:	Location or Hollinger ID:	NARA Number:	OA Number:
M	22	17	9	2	8570	8983	7396	8154

Folder Title:

1002266

Taeshonnda King

1002266
FO

Executive Office of The President Barcode Scanning Sheet

Collection Code: CTRACK

Staff Name:

Document Date: March 20, 2009

Correspondent: HIS EXCELLENCY ANDERS RASMUSSEN
+ 17 Additional Correspondents

Subject/Description: AS OUR COUNTRIES WORK TO STEAM THE GLOBAL ECONOMIC CRISIS, WE MUST NOT LOSE SIGHT OF THE POTENTIALLY DEVASTATING IMPACTS OF THE GLOBAL CLIMATE CRISIS.

SCANNED BY ORM

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

OK to HP
19 letters

3/20/2009

PR

His Excellency
Anders Fogh Rasmussen
Prime Minister of Denmark
Copenhagen

Dear Mr. Prime Minister:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I have suggested that the leaders of 17 major economies designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009, in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. In your capacity as host of the United Nations climate change conference this December, I would welcome your participation in this year's Leaders Meeting. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

*All letters autopenned and returned to Staff Sec.

3-20-2009

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

His Excellency
Ban Ki-moon
Secretary-General of the United Nations
New York

Dear Mr. Secretary-General:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I have suggested that the leaders of 17 major economies designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. I would welcome your participation in this year's Leaders Meeting. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

Mr. Kgalema Motlanthe
President of the Republic of South Africa
Pretoria

Dear Mr. President:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

His Excellency
Dmitriy Medvedev
President of the Russian Federation
Moscow

Dear Mr. President:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

His Excellency
Lee Myung-bak
President of the Republic of Korea
Seoul

Dear Mr. President:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

His Excellency
Felipe de Jesus Calderon Hinojosa
President of the United Mexican States
Mexico, D.F.

Dear Mr. President:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C.

This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

His Excellency
Taro Aso
Prime Minister of Japan
Tokyo

Dear Mr. Prime Minister:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

His Excellency
Silvio Berlusconi
President of the Council of Ministers of the Italian Republic
Rome

Dear Mr. Prime Minister:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Thank you for your offer to host such a meeting in July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

His Excellency
Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono
President of the Republic of Indonesia
Jakarta

Dear Mr. President:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

His Excellency
Dr. Manmohan Singh
Prime Minister of the Republic of India
New Delhi

Dear Mr. Prime Minister:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

Her Excellency
Angela Merkel
Chancellor of the Federal Republic of Germany
Berlin

Dear Madam Chancellor:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

His Excellency
Nicolas Sarkozy
President of the French Republic
Paris

Dear Mr. President:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

His Excellency
Mirek Topolánek
Prime Minister of the Czech Republic
Prague

Dear Mr. Prime Minister:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C.

This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. In your capacity as President of the European Council, I welcome your designating a representative to participate in these preparatory sessions. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

His Excellency
José Manuel Durao Barroso
President of the Commission of the European Communities
Brussels

Dear Mr. President:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

His Excellency
Hu Jintao
President of the People's Republic of China
Beijing

Dear Mr. President:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

The Right Honorable
Stephen Harper, P.C., M.P.
Prime Minister of Canada
Ottawa

Dear Mr. Prime Minister:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

His Excellency
Luiz Inácio Lula da Silva
President of the Federative Republic of Brazil
Brasilia

Dear Mr. President:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

The Honorable
Kevin Rudd, M.P.,
Prime Minister of Australia
Canberra

Dear Prime Minister:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

March 20, 2009

The Right Honorable
James Gordon Brown, M.P.
Prime Minister
London

Dear Prime Minister:

Even as our countries work to stem the global economic crisis, we must not lose sight of the potentially devastating impacts of the global climate crisis. Here too, we must act firmly, promptly, and collectively if we are to set our economies on a clean energy growth path.

In pursuit of this objective I propose we build on and advance the existing major economies process by establishing a Major Economies Forum on Energy and Climate. Prime Minister Berlusconi has agreed to host such a meeting in La Maddalena this July. Such a forum would permit a candid dialogue among key countries, provide political leadership required to promote a successful outcome in Copenhagen, and facilitate the exploration of concrete initiatives and joint ventures that can advance clean energy growth while cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

To begin the preparatory work for the Leaders Meeting in Italy, I would suggest that we, the leaders of 17 major economies, designate a representative to participate in a preparatory session for the Major Economies Forum, to be held April 27-28, 2009 in Washington, D.C. This gathering should be followed by at least two more preparatory meetings in advance of the Leaders Meeting, and we will work together with other participants on the timing and location of such meetings. My Deputy National Security Advisor for International Economic Affairs, Michael Froman, and U.S. Special Envoy for Climate Change, Todd Stern, will be in touch with your Ambassador to provide more details on this meeting.

I look forward to working with you on this issue. The future of our children and our planet depend on what we do to address this challenge in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

(A)