Dear Michelle:

Thank you for writing. As President and as a father, I am deeply grateful for the brave men and women in uniform who serve and protect families and communities across our Nation. I appreciate your sharing your experience with me.

Law enforcement officials represent the best of America, and they deserve the best from it. As you know well, they have enormously tough jobs. After putting their lives on the line every single day to keep us safe, they deserve to return home to their loved ones at the end of each shift. Earlier this year, I sat down with law enforcement officers in the Oval Office to hear directly from them about their experiences, and they discussed the importance of building and maintaining the trust of their communities. I believe law enforcement is most effective when people have confidence in the system, and my Administration is taking steps to enhance community policing and to strengthen the relationship between these dedicated professionals and the neighborhoods they serve.

Again, thank you for taking the time to write. Please know I will keep your message in my thoughts, and I wish you all the best.

Sincerely,

BARACK OBAMA (A)
